Game Released! (+ Calculator STS?):

Hey, it's National Gamer Day! Seriously... I never even intended to time that, it just happened.

If you've played the demo and liked what you saw, go ahead and buy the full version now!

Thanks to everybody who plays, and see you all later!

I'll leave you all with a cool picture my friend made on his calculator!

Steven the Sperm Perfect Acorn Podcast - Episode 2:

<https://youtu.be/gh0JURtDqI8>

Hey everybody, did you know that Perfect Acorn has a YouTube channel? And did you know we have a podcast? In this episode we talk a little bit about STS, so I felt that it was appropriate to post here in case any of you guys were interested.

There is some stuff at the beginning you might not necessarily understand if you didn't listen to the first episode, but it's not too important and it's explained later anyways.

Hope you guys enjoy! See you all later! Remember to leave some comments or a review on the game if you haven't already. 😁

. Demo Released!:

Ayy, what's up my future sperm lovers... are you as excited as I am to get a nice, hot steamy Steven on your calloused fingers? Then worry not my fellow sperm fanatics, because before the final game is even out yet, you can test out the demo version!

In the demo you'll be able to play one of the many awe-inspiring, moving, captivating, and beautiful stages! Get your feel for the controls before beating the final game! Get used to the heart-pounding experience of being a sperm trapped in a labyrinth of spermicide!

See you guys later... stay safe... use protection...but have fun!. One Month of STS!:

So, it's been one full month since the release of STS on September 12th! I'm pleasantly surprised, this game did much better than I thought it ever would, so I have all of you to thank for it. Thanks!

It looks like the game has gone past its opening week rush, and has gone into its quiet phase. That's fine. This game has been a massive learning experience for me and my friends as video game developers, and we'll be sure to learn from it. For instance, we probably should've had more community activity and promotional material, and we shouldn't have opened the store page so long before the game was even released.

That leads me to the burning question, and that is whether or not this game should still be considered "under support". Here's the thing: I kinda crashed after releasing the game, and have been taking a break. And when I think of anything Acorn related, it's always to future games...

This is where you come in.

If there are any major bugs or recommendations, please tell me about them. Whether that be from the discussions or emailing me directly, I don't care, I'll probably do it.

If you want major updates, then say something! If you really love this game and want more, leave a review, take some screenshots, or post a discussion. Maybe I'll add multiplayer, who knows... The current quiet atmosphere is nice and less stressful, but if you guys are satisfied with the current product, then I might end up leaving it to stand on its own until the next Perfect Acorn game.

If you want anything say something! I'm always active.

Thank you all for playing Perfect Acorn games.. Four Days Left! Have you played the demo yet? Thanks to Those Who Have!:

Hola espermos y espermas...

I don't know if my Spanish is very good, but anyways, the game comes out in about four days! I know some of you can't wait, but don't lose interest... maybe take some meds if you have to. But I guess if you're constantly interested for more than four hours, then you might need to visit your doctor, so maybe just chill a bit. Keep it on your radar though!

If you haven't noticed yet, there's a demo! It's just a little preview, not that big of a load, but just enough to the point where somebody would be able to notice it if it rubs off on you. I also want to thank everybody who's come out of nowhere to make YouTube videos about the game, or even those who've just left comments below these posts.

I guess I should also mention that I removed the "Recommended" system requirements, since I basically just put in my system specs and left a comment saying that it was what the game was tested on. Some people got a bit shocked (rightfully so), so that's why it's gone.

Anyways, I can't wait just as much as all of you, so we've gotta stick out this wait together. Maybe I'll make some more posts with horrendously inappropriate and awkward sperm jokes. I dunno.

I'll be seeing you!
